Inez Steyn

Throughout one's life there are things you hear observe and experience. These form the seeds of inspiration which you collect, develop and grow when stimulated by something you see, hear or feel. Your imagination is set on a path and you are driven to reproduce your experience. The flame comes without warning, but always by "Grace". Then it is hard work and dedication. The satisfaction of a completed work is hard to explain and thankfulness overwhelms one.

"I started my art career late in life. With it a whole new world unfolded for me. I am passionate about art, and dedicated to my work, always trying to give my best. Through hard work and constant stimulation I am open to new challenges. I am inspired by people and life around me. "

The Wind, Moon, Clouds and Death

We go through life leaving footprints,

As we pass on the wind fills them up with sand. Our souls then find peace.

The Brocken String

People came and took their land.

Destroyed their future, and broke the string, now the bow can not sing anymore.
